

From multi-award-winning Premier Travel Tasmania, renowned for innovative tour design, comes Tasmania's first ever hands-on culinary experience. Combining distinctive hospitality, exclusive culinary insights and artisan produce sourced direct from the land, the Tasmanian Culinary Weekend treats interstate visitors to a refreshing winter escape.

With an emphasis on hearty, homely cuisine, the package includes 3 days and 2 nights in Hobart and its surrounds, showcasing some of Tasmania's finest first-class restaurants and wineries, including Hobart's world-acclaimed Marque IV restaurant. Guests will enjoy award-winning five-star boutique accommodation at the beautiful Islington Hotel and the morning buzz of Australia's largest outdoor market, Salamanca Market. This weekend offer allows food lovers to reinvigorate their senses and discover the quality and innovation for which the island state is rapidly becoming internationally renowned.

Thanks to its unique relationships with local Tasmanian producers and culinary experts, Premier Travel Tasmania has been able to skilfully meld together an array of authentic, hands-on experiences.

Tasmanian Culinary Weekend participants will join Australian Gourmet Traveller's editor Rodney Dunn at his much talked-about Agrarian Kitchen for a day of culinary exploration, taking part in the preparation of a sumptuous feast using produce sourced from his market garden. At the prize-winning Lark Distillery, guests will gain exclusive insight into whisky making and its history whilst enjoying comprehensive tastings followed by a lunch of Tasmanian ocean trout and traditional Scottish haggis. An additional highlight is the sourdough bread baking class at the Companion Bakery in Oatlands, nestled in the historic midlands region of Tasmania. Be welcomed by Graham Prichard, regarded as one of Australia's most knowledgeable and talented bread specialists. Graham, who specializes in organic wood-fired sourdough, is using only Tasmanian-grown, wheat and locally-sourced ingredients, which ensures a unique flavour in every loaf of bread.

The Tasmanian Culinary Weekend is priced from $1600 per person and can be booked for a minimum of 4 people and a maximum of 8. Commencing on Friday morning and concluding on Sunday evening, the package offers three full days packed with culinary delights. "It is the first product in Tasmania to combine a variety of first-rate culinary offerings in an easy-to-consume format," said Premier Travel Tasmania proprietor Peter Ernst. "The package really highlights what Tasmania has to offer, going well beyond your normal food and wine experiences."
